Z.O.A. Convention Rejects Warning Of Ben-Gurion Not To Seek Special Status In Israel

Benjamin G. Browdy was re-elected president of the Zionist Organization of America at Atlantic City, N. J., and set forth a comprehensive program to aid Israel's economy. The program includes a proposed agreement with the Israeli government to send 200 highly trained experts and technicians to Israel, and the enlisting of American capital for private investment in Israel.

The delegates "re-affirmed the fundamental conception of the world Zionist movement as the recognized and accredited body representing the Jewish people in relation to Israel." The delegates urged the Israeli government and World Zionist Congress, scheduled to be held in Jerusalem in August, to recognize this status officially "and the movement's constitutional independence and autonomy in the administration of its activities."

A delegation of 100 American businessmen, headed by Isador S. Turover, chairman of the organization's economic committee, Mr. Browdy announced, will leave for Israel on July 22 to study that country's conditions and recommend a number of Israeli industries "in which the possibilities of a return on capital investments are the greatest."

Henry Monter, vice president of the American Financial and Development Corporation for Israel, said at a special session that the $500,000,000 Israel bond issue already had had its impact in the strengthening of the new country's economic structure, reports the New York Times.

The delegates, in calling for legal status for the World Zionist Movement, urged the Government of Israel to embark upon "a policy of reciprocal relations and mutuality of obligations with the Zionist movement, to recognize the movement's unique role, to strengthen it and encourage its work."

On the eve of his departure from America to Israel, Mr. Ben-Gurion said the Zionist movement must not seek such a status. In a statement sent to the convention, the Prime Minister defined the role of Zionism but made no mention of the status. He has been severely scored by Zionist leaders for his statement.

After a sharp debate the delegates adopted a resolution by a majority re-affirming the previous stand of the organization to maintain close relations with the general Zionist party in Israel. A substitute resolution, introduced by J. M. Alkow, head of the South Pacific region of the organization, calling on the convention not "to interfere in the internal affairs of the State of Israel, including the collection of funds for political campaigns in Israel," was defeated.

In his speech opening the convention, Mr. Browdy accused Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion of attempting to minimize and weaken the influence of the world Zionist movement, says the New York Herald Tribune. Mr. Browdy warned that the entire American-Jewish program of financial, moral and political assistance to Israel will be jeopardized unless the attacks on the Zionist movement are halted and the government of Israel accords special status to the Zionist movement "as the most important agency concerned with Israel's interests in the United States."

Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, speaking in the same vein as Mr. Browdy, said: "The issue is not whether the sovereignty of the state of Israel should be interfered with, but whether the government of Israel should undermine the authority, prestige and effectiveness of the World Zionist Organization in the fond hope of finding some other body or bodies in world Jewry which will contribute more, politically and economically, to it."

Dr. Silver warned that if the authority and scope of the world Zionist movement are narrowed, the movement will disintegrate. "There is no other competent agency or organization in the field now existing or which can be created, which can take its place," he said.

The criticism by Mr. Browdy and Dr. Silver was evoked by two developments during Mr. Ben-Gurion's recent visit to the United States: Mr. Ben-Gurion repeatedly told the Zionists that they could not and should not have a privileged status in relation to Israel; during most of his stay he dealt with Jews who are not part of the Zionist movement.

Behind the disagreement is that for more than half a century the actions toward the creation of a Jewish state were exclusively Zionist matters, in which non-Zionists did not participate. Once the Jewish state was established and in

FORD IS THIRD CO-CHAIRMAN OF CHRISTIAN-JEWISH BODY

Thomas E. Braniff, Roman Catholic national co-chairman of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and Roger W. Straus, its Jewish national co-chairman, announced the election of Benson Ford as Protestant national co-chairman. Mr. Ford is vice president and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division of the Ford Motor Company, and grandson of Henry Ford.

Mr. Ford succeeds Charles E. Wilson, who resigned after his appointment as director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. Other Protestant co-chairmen have been the late Newton D. Baker, one-time Secretary of War, and Dr. Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis.

Mr. Straus, who is board chairman of the American Smelting and Refining Company, said that "Mr. Ford continues a brilliant history of Protestant leadership" and Mr. Braniff, who is president of Braniff International Airways, lauded Mr. Ford's "genuine zeal for justice as a standard of human relationships."

Head Of KZ, Nazi Victims, Looks To World Court

Armand Eisler, 71 years old and once a concentration camp victim, cannot forget. He does not want to forget. To him this is not a time for forgetting, not when there are millions imprisoned in Soviet concentration camps.

"I have been in Buchenwald and Dachau," Dr. Eisler said. "I know the horror of such places. I know what they do to a man's mind and a man's spirit. I cannot enjoy life when I know that right now so many are suffering as I have suffered. "Friends tell me that I should let my memories pass. How can I?

"This great crime against humanity should be brought before the International Court of Justice," Dr. Eisler said. "It has a proper place there. The court as an impartial international body can be an important weapon in the war of words, the war of ideas. And this kind of war is so much preferable to a war of arms," Dr. Eisler said with a shrug of his shoulders.

The doctor (he received the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Vienna) speaks not only for himself in this matter of concentration camps. He is chairman of KZ, the American Association of Former Inmates of Concentration Camps, located at 252 West Ninety-Second Street. The members of the group were all victims of Nazi persecution and, as a group, they would like to rid the world of concentration camps forever, says the New York Times.

"There is no spirit of revenge in us," said the spokesman for the Nazi victims. "We know that this brutal inhumanity can happen again and again. And we feel a strong moral obligation to fight for these victims of barbarism in any country, no matter what it be."

In turning to the International Court of Justice for recourse in this matter Dr. Eisler is on firm ground. All his life he has been interested in social problems and their relationship to the law. Born in Paris, the doctor spent most of his life in Austria practicing law in Vienna. He served as a legal and economic advisor to the Government. He lectured and taught. He was an avid student of international law.

When Hitler joined Austria to Germany in 1938, Dr. Eisler was arrested and sent to the concentration camp at Dachau. Later he was removed to Buchenwald and finally was released after a year's imprisonment when friends obtained a visa for him to come to the United States.

Dr. Eisler took well to his new country. He has written papers on the problems of displaced persons and of human rights, some of which have been reprinted in the Congressional Record. In 1946 he

CHICAGO DOCTOR HEADS HEART GROUP

Dr. Louis N. Katz, director of cardiovascular research at the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, was installed as president of the American Heart Association; and Mrs. Alben Barkley, wife of the Vice-President of the United States, as vice-president.

Dr. Irving S. Wright, professor of clinical medicine at Cornell University, was chosen president-elect for the 1952-'53 term at today's meeting of the assembly of the association. In addition to Mrs. Barkley four other vice-presidents were elected. They are Bruce Barton, chairman of the board of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne, New York advertising agency; T. Duckett Jones, chairman of the American Council on Rheumatic Fever; Dr. Robert L. King, of the Mason Clinic, Seattle; and Frederick K. Trask jr, of Payson & Trask, New York.

U.S. Is Firm On Restitution To Nazi Victims

United States policy will continue to stand squarely behind restitution of property in Germany to victims of National Socialism, John J. McCloy, United States High Commissioner, has informed the heads of the American zone and the State Governments in identical letters released at Frankfort, Germany.

The move was designed to end persistent speculation that, as the occupation status changes, the Germans now liable to return such properties or compensate the owners under United States Military Government Law No. 59, may be able to evade this responsibility.

A draft bill recently submitted to the Legal Committee of the Bundestag by the Federal Association of Restitutors indicates that the hopes go even further. This draft — which has not received the backing of any political party thus far — would revise law 59 to open a way for counterclaims for property already returned to pre-Nazi owners.

First, it would remove the presumption of duress in property transfers before June 14, 1938. Second, it would shift the liability for restitution from the present private owners to the German state. Third, property for which no heirs survive would revert to the German state and finally cases already adjudicated could be reopened, reports the New York Times.

Mr. McCloy's letter is specifically designed to discourage the present owners who are fighting the restitution claims simply in hopes that there will be a change in policy.

Turkey Gets Chief Rabbi, Once Of Egypt, Via N.Y.

For the first time in a quarter-century, Jewish religious instruction is now being given in the Jewish schools of Turkey, it was disclosed in the latest issue of Current Events in Jewish Life, a quarterly survey published by the Institute of Jewish Affairs, World Jewish Congress. Although parents have the right to forego religious instruction for their children, very few have exercised this right. Altogether, there are seven such schools, five in Istanbul and two in Izmir. Jewish religious education was ended in Jewish schools in Turkey 25 years ago when, with the establishment of the Turkish Republic, a law was passed making it compulsory to give such instruction in Turkish. During that period, no suitable textbook was approved.

Recently, the rabbinate prepared a textbook which was approved by the Minister of Education, and religious education was resumed. In addition, Turkey has a Grand Rabbi for the first time in 18 years. After the death of the last Grand Rabbi, Haham Moises Bejerano, no successor was appointed because it was felt that there was no

Two Groups Ask U.S. To Investigate Support To International Nazi Efforts

A three-pronged investigation of organized, international neo-Nazi propaganda, tending to undermine free governments, was sought in joint communications from the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League and the Independent Order Brith Abraham. By advocating denial of rights to individuals because of their race, religion or political party, and by direct attacks on the leadership of General Eisenhower, this propaganda menaces the entire plan for the defense of West Europe, the two organizations charged. They cited:

The recent international Fascist conference at Malmoe, Sweden, aiming at unification of all pro-Fascist and neo-Nazi organizations in Europe and the Western Hemisphere. The recrudescence of neo-Nazi parties in West Germany and Austria "obviously on a supra-national basis, and in some instances with direct, organized assistance from similar groups in the United States and Argentina." They also cited:

Dissemination of hate propaganda by a "literature cartel", headquartered in Sweden, under Einar Aberg, whose anti-Semitic leaflets have appeared simultaneously with identical contents, in translations distributed in the United States (distributed by Gerald L. K. Smith and others); England (by the Mosely group); West Germany by neo-Nazi elements); South Africa (by pro-Malanists); Argentina and Mexico, and even in the Orient. Development of a widely-ramified international neo-Nazi press, spearheaded by Der Weg, a German language publication in Argentina, under the direct supervision of Hans-Ulrich Rudel and similarly incriminated former Nazis, whose activities are currently being favorably portrayed in the West German press.

The Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League and Independent Order Brith Abraham sought, in a letter to Secretary General Trygve Lie of the United Nations, "an investigation and joint action by the democratic countries against the activities of these groups, by the appropriate sub-committee of the United Nations Assembly, at the organization's next meeting." In a letter to Attorney General J. Howard McGrath it asked: "Investigation of domestic support given this international propaganda cartel, particularly by the organization called the German American Voters Alliance, headed by Edward Fleckenstein, of New York City and Weehawken, New Jersey, and appropriate criminal proceedings." In a letter to High Commissioner John J. McCloy it sought: "Punitive action against the so-called European Social Movement (sponsor of the Malmoe Conference), and neo-Nazi organizations operating as political parties in West Germany."

These requests were signed by James H. Sheldon, administrative chairman of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, and Louis A. Weissman, Grand Master of the Independent Order Brith Abraham. "There can be no doubt but that all of the above mentioned organizations and movements are closely interrelated, and the voluminous documentary evidence shows that they exchange propaganda, lecturers, and other personnel, and financial assistance. All look for-

Garment Strike Was First In 25 Years

Both sides voiced the hope of continued amity, as a three-year agreement was signed in New York between 65,000 garment workers and 2,000 shops in the metropolitan area. The contract, replacing one that expired May 31, following a forty-eight-hour work stoppage, the first in twenty-five years. The pact was signed in the offices of David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, A. F. L., 1710 Broadway.

Referring to the contract as a "satisfactory compromise," Mr. Dubinsky said: "I realize that both sides would not have permitted their differences to develop into a serious conflict and that both parties did everything in their power to maintain the record of peaceful and reasonable relationships in the cloak industry, and we are fully confident that these cooperative relationships will continue."

A management statement said that the employers were "gratified" over resumption of operations, adding: "We have every hope that through the equitable and constructive administration of the contract, the industry's tradition of enlightened management-labor relationship will be maintained, in the best interests of all the parties to the agreement and of the consuming public."

The agreement provides for a revision of minimum wages to bring them into line with "existing practices"; an equitable distribution of work with employers in New York entitled to a fair share of "the bundle"; prices to be settled in the manufacturer's or jobber's premises and not the contractor's, and an increase in the payments to the health and vacation fund from 3½ to 4½ per cent.

Minimum wages, which have been unchanged for ten years, will be increased to the levels actually being paid. Thus a cutter's minimum pay will go from $55 to $87 a week. At no time did the union demand a direct wage increase, but in the health-vacation fund increase the union receives an additional $1,500,000 a year for its members.

A major issue was control over shops outside New York. Manufacturers and jobbers agreed to an "equitable distribution" of work among contractors in New York and elsewhere.

Cyprus Jews, 165, Revive Group Life

One of the smallest Jewish communities in the world, the Jewry of Cyprus, is building a new synagogue, it was reported to the World Jewish Congress. The community, consisting of about 165 people, is erecting the synagogue and meeting house in Nicosia, the principal city of Cyprus, in the hopes that a revived Jewish cultural life will be centered there. Contacts have also been established between the Cyprus community and WJ Congress with a view to affiliation.

Although tiny, the Cyprus community has actively aided its fellow-Jews. When the so-called "illegal" immigrants were brought to Cyprus camps by the British during the last years of the Palestine mandate, Cyprus Jewry organized a committee to provide them with both spiritual and material help. The local Jews gave refuge to immigrants who escaped from the detention camps, and one of Cyprus' most prominent Jews was arrested in connection with this activity but later freed.

With the help of the newly-established Israel Consulate in Cyprus, a council has been elected to care for the cultural and social interests of the little community. Nearly all the members of the community participated in celebrations organized by the council on Chanukah and Purim this year. While some of the local Jews are in commerce or the mining field, a large percentage of the Cyprus Jews are engaged in agricultural pursuits including citrus planting. One family owns 2,000 acres which it farms intensively.

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Governors of the State of Israel bond drive, received the 1951 Brotherhood Award of the Metropolitan Conference of Temple Brotherhoods. Recipients of the annual award of the Conference in the past included Bernard Baruch, Senator Herbert H. Lehman, General David Sarnoff and the late Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. The citation referred to Mr. Morgenthau's years of public service as U. S. Secretary of the Treasury.

CLASS IN COOKERY

NEW WAY APPLE PIE

two eggs
one cup sugar
one-half cup oil or shortening
one-quarter cup cold water
one teaspoon vanilla
two teaspoons baking powder
two and one-half cups flour
one pinch salt

Beat eggs and sugar together; sift baking powder, flour and salt together, and add to egg mixture; pour in oil, water and vanilla; combine all ingredients well. Divide dough in half and roll each piece out flat.

Filling

four large or six medium-sized apples one-half teaspoon lemon juice
one-half cup sugar

Slice apples. Place filling over one-half of the dough, and spread a little jam on top for flavouring. Fold the other half onto this, and close at the sides. Slash top in a design and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in greased pan, at 350 degrees, for about three-quarters of an hour.

Mrs. H. Wiener,
98 Lowther Avenue, Toronto.

DELUXE WALNUT TORTE

one-half cup shortening
one-half cup white sugar
one-half teaspoon vanilla
four egg-yolks
one cup cake flour few grains salt
one teaspoon baking powder
one-third cup milk

Cream shortening and sugar; add vanilla; and then egg-yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition, and until mixture is fluffy. Add flour, which has been sifted with salt and baking powder, alternately with the milk. Pour into two eight-inch cake pans, and spread with walnut meringue.

Walnut Meringue

four stiffly-beaten egg-whites one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar one cup white sugar
three-quarters cup chopped nuts

Fold in cream of tartar, sugar and walnuts into beaten whites. Spread over unbaked cake layers; and bake them in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for about one hour. When layers are cool, frost with chocolate whip.

Chocolate Whip

Add one-third cup cocoa and three-quarters cup white sugar, to one and one-half cups heavy cream. Let stand for one hour, and then beat until stiff. Put cool cake layers together, with whip, between layers, and on top and sides. Garnish with walnut halves.

FLAKY COFFEE CAKES

● Scald ⅔ c. cream, 2 tbs. granulated sugar, 1 tsp. salt and ¾ c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl ½ c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well.

Add cooled cream mixture and stir in 3 well-beaten eggs. Stir in 2 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2½ c. (about) once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and set in a warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Mix ¾ c. granulated sugar and 2 tsps. ground cinnamon; sprinkle half of this mixture on baking board. Divide dough into 2 equal portions and turn out one portion onto prepared board. Roll out into a 12" square; fold from back to front and from one side to the other. Repeat rolling and folding 3 more times, flouring board lightly if it becomes sticky. Seal edges of folded dough and place in a greased 8" square cake pan and pat out to fit the pan; butter top lightly and press walnut halves well into the dough. Sprinkle remaining sugar and cinnamon mixture on board and treat second portion of dough same as first portion. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°, 15 mins., while preparing the following syrup; simmer together for 5 mins., 1 c. granulated sugar, 1½ tsps. grated orange rind, ¼ c. butter or margarine and ½ c. orange juice. Quickly pour hot syrup over the 2 partially-baked cakes and bake cakes about 15 mins. longer. Stand baked cakes on cake coolers for 20 minutes, then loosen edges and gently shake from pans.

COOLING OFF!
It takes a lot of cooling to keep a Polar Bear happy. This largest member of the bear family is smaller than a porcupine at birth, but often weighs more than three-quarters of a ton when full grown. To this tremendous bulk, add the fact that the bear is covered with a thick, water-proof coat, which is designed to protect him in the Arctic . . . it's a big job keeping him cool in our zoos. Learn about nature's creatures. Visit the nearest zoo and see them. A whole new world of interest will be opened to you when you understand nature.

Z. O. A. CONVENTION

the war with the Arabs that followed, however, most Jews — Zionists and non-Zionists alike — rallied to the support of Israel.

Many of the largest financial contributors were not Zionists. Israel, still needing money, is wooing both Zionists and non-Zionists and does not want to make assistance to it a political matter. The Zionists, however, contend that they are and will continue to be the cornerstone of all aid to Israel.

Mr. Ben-Gurion is a labor Zionist of Socialist persuasion. The Z. O. A. leadership supports a free enterprise movement in Israel and as a result is in political opposition to Mr. Ben-Gurion.

Abraham Redelhim, convention chairman, also took issue with Mr. Ben-Gurion, asserting that "it was only because of the dogged persistence of the Zionist movement and its never-ending appeal" over a period of years that a response was elicited from non-Zionist quarters. He listed four points as the immediate concern of American Zionists: "Our duty to the State of Israel, our responsibility to the Zionist movement, our integration into the American Jewish community, our pride and devotion to our own Zionist organization of America."

Dr. Israel Goldstein, chairman of the World Confederation of General Zionists, asserted that Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion was utilizing "partisan strategy" to weaken the Zionist movement in America and to strengthen his Mapai party in Israel, according to the New York Times.

Dr. Goldstein charged that Mr. Ben-Gurion's political maneuver was designed "to discourage General Zionists in America, who are the strongest constituency outside of Israel, from extending moral and material support to the General Zionists in Israel, who are the strongest rivals of Mr. Ben-Gurion's dominant Mapai party."

Before the elections in 1949, the General Zionist movement in Israel split, resulting in the formation of a Progressive bloc that entered the coalition government, headed by Mr. Ben-Gurion. The Progressive group in Israel, while adhering to the same platform as the General Zionists, have accused the General Zionists of "being reactionary."

In referring to Mr. Ben-Gurion's statement calling for the dissolution of Zionist parties outside of Israel, Dr. Goldstein declared: "I think I can say for General Zionists everywhere that when the Mapai and the Mizrachi (religious-Zionist) decide to liquidate their parties in the diaspora (outside of Israel), the general Zionists are willing to lead the procession."

Dr. Goldstein, whose organization consists of General Zionists and Progressives, urged close cooperation between the Z.O.A. and Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, on important issues that will be considered at the World Zionist Congress in Jerusalem in August. Such a cooperation, he said, could result in achieving a dominant role for the World Zionist Organization in the support of Israel.

Dr. Goldstein called on the Progressives and General Zionists in Israel to reunite, stressing that such a political bloc, "occupying the second place in Parliament, can exercise a wholesome influence upon the leading party, and by replacing either the religious bloc or the Mapam, as the second party, can help steer the ship of state on an even keel, removing from the center of the political struggle religious issues on the one hand or leftist, pro-Soviet threats, on the other."

He ventured the prediction that the General Zionist Party in Israel would occupy first place in the near future, adding: "Its rise to a position of greater importance would, I believe, be well received by public opinion in the Western Democracies."

Tasty sandwiches with rich cheese sauce

• For the whole family – for company, too – you can make all kinds of nutritious treats with Velveeta. For instance, this Luncheon Sandwich. Make three-deck sandwiches of toast spread with Kraft Mayonnaise. Use peeled sliced tomatoes for one filling, crisp lettuce for the other. For cheese sauce: Melt ½ lb. Velveeta in the top of a double boiler. Stir in ¼ cup milk, ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, ¼ tsp. dry mustard. Season. Garnish with pickle fans.
Everyone loves Velveeta's rich yet mild cheddar cheese flavor, and it's digestible as milk. Slice it, spread it, melt it—it's always delicious! Ask your grocer for Velveeta in the ½ lb. package, the 1-lb. loaf or the 2-lb. loaf.

What Liberal Judaism Hopes To Achieve

BY DR. I. I. MATTUCK, RABBI, OF THE LIBERAL SYNAGOGUE, LONDON, ENGLAND

Liberal Judaism is, in the first place, a system of religious thought and the corresponding religious attitude. Its institutions, its synagogues with their services and activities exist, in the first place, for ourselves. They give us a Jewish religious home with services in which we can join with understanding and sincerity and from which we derive spiritual satisfaction, and with organised activities in which we can express our corporate Jewish feeling.

At the same time, Liberal Judaism is also a movement. We are not just synagogues, we are synagogues which are joined together to spread the knowledge of Liberal Judaism and to win adherents for it. What do we hope to achieve by the movement? When I say "we", I mean all who have given Liberal Judaism their adherence. Everyone who joins a Liberal Synagogue enlists in a cause; he assumes a share in the obligation which lies upon the synagogue to serve the Liberal Jewish movement.

The general aim of the movement, to spread a knowledge of Liberal Judaism, involves three specific practical aims. The first of them is to establish an effective adherence to Judaism in those Jews who have turned away from it and are indifferent to it. There are two categories of Jews who are indifferent to Judaism. There are those who lack the capacity for spiritual apprehension and to whom spiritual considerations are wholly meaningless. The other category consists of those Jews who cannot accept Orthodox teaching and cannot find spiritual stimulus in Orthodox Services — Jews who have turned away from Judaism or who have become indifferent to it because they could not believe in the Judaism they were taught or find any value in its services.

So, both logically and spiritually, they were compelled to turn away, they became indifferent to avoid hypocrisy. Liberal Judaism has a duty towards them, a duty which it can hope to fulfil, because it overcomes their intellectual difficulties, answers their intellectual questions, and offers solutions for the problems imposed on religion by the modern intellectual developments in thought and knowledge. It can satisfy their desire for truth in religion and give them services in which they can join sincerely, and which can stimulate their religious feeling.

There is another reason which justifies the hope that Liberal Judaism can rouse attachment to Judaism in Jews who are indifferent to it. It fits Judaism into our cultural pattern. Judaism started in the ancient Orient, in a cultural pattern, therefore, totally different from the cultural pattern of the Western world. The difference touches many elements. It leads to differing views about marriage and divorce; the Jewish laws about them, which come from the past, belong to the Oriental social framework in which women had, and have, a different status from that given them in the Western world.

The Israeli Parliament recently had to recognise the right of Jews in the Mohammedan countries to practise polygamy because there was nothing in ancient Jewish law forbidding it. Polygamy has been forbidden to Jews in the Western world by an edict of a Rabbi of the 11th century, which has been universally accepted, but that edict carries no authority in the Eastern world.

The difference between the cultural patterns of the ancient East and the modern West, aggravated by the differences between the life of the Jews in the ghetto and their life in the free countries, has to be taken into account also in the synagogue services; in Liberal Synagogues they are so constructed as to fit into the present lives and culture of the Jews. Only in this way can they express the spiritual aspirations of many Jews and influence their lives.

The hope that Liberal Judaism can establish an effective attachment to Judaism in those who have been turned to indifference by Orthodoxy is supported by our own experience. I think I can say for you as well as for myself, that if it were not for Liberal Judaism we should have been among those many Jews who are indifferent to Judaism. If Orthodox Judaism, a Judaism in which we could not believe and in which we found no inspiration, were the only kind of Judaism, then obviously we should have been driven into indifference. So we ourselves can give witness to the power which Liberal Judaism has to bring the truth and the influence of Judaism into the lives of those who have turned away from Orthodoxy.

Moreover, Orthodox Jewish leaders themselves testify, in spite of themselves, that Liberal Judaism has this power. The spokesman of the Ecclesiastical Authorities in a recent public attack on Liberal Judaism complained that it was "making inroads in the community." "Inroads"? We should say "making large further advances in the community." But how are those "inroads" made? Is Liberal Judaism winning those Jews who are sincerely Orthodox? No, and it does not aim to win sincere Orthodox Jews away from Orthodoxy; it only asks them to recognise that other Jews have a right to their interpretation of Judaism.

received his citizenship papers.

An uncle of Hans Eisler, formerly a key figure in the Communist party in the United States and now important in the Communist party of Germany, Dr. Eisler has no sympathy for his nephew's political views.

"I regard the leaders of Soviet Russia as no better than Hitler or Goering," he said. "They are the instigators of a counter-revolution against human rights. They will never allow the implementation of a human rights covenant in the United Nations. They will fight it at every turn."

The doctor and his group feel strongly that the international court may prove a keystone in the fight for human rights. They feel that not only nations but groups and individuals who have been wronged should be able to bring the nation that has oppressed them to that impartial bar of justice.

Community Help Toward A Better Life

BY WILLIAM GITTES, PRESIDENT, BARON DE HIRSCH INSTITUTE AND JEWISH CHILD WELFARE BUREAU OF MONTREAL

We report a year's work against a background of a world at bay. Five years after World War II, civilization is again at the crossroads. In the midst of alarms and crises, we have adhered steadfastly to the constructive purpose which animates our organization. In serving our brethren, we serve ourselves and mankind. If we are to survive this dark time, let us renew our faith in man's will to live. Given the opportunity of good will and understanding, men and nations can learn to build, and to share, a better life.

Our agency continues to supply many indispensable needs our fellow citizens require if they are to find life worthwhile. As a voluntary human enterprise, our services are limited only by the means available and the very nature of the helping process, the goal of which is to help each individual to help himself.

The vital role our agency occupies in the daily lives of its clients and our community is barely suggested by statistics. If only all of you might be able to eavesdrop on the thousands of people who come to us for help. You would hear the tragedies and pain of every age and stage of living, of the misunderstandings that baffle and afflict most of us. If you could but share in the satisfaction that our agency's skilled, sympathetic workers derive from seeing young children start afresh after bereavements; parents enabled to live more comfortably with rebellious, adolescent children; married couples helped to find new perspectives; the hundreds of families whose necessities are protected; the sick and aged encouraged to face the twilight of their lives with more security; the hundreds of war orphans and former D. P. families helped to begin new, productive lives among us.

Within our Family Welfare Department a total of 1,431 families and 1,260 unattached men and women were assisted financially during the year, for which 2,675 QPCA reimbursements were made. This averaged monthly to 224 relief cases and 223 QPCA's. Each month another 120 cases received personal counselling. Moreover, 169 immigrant families were assisted financially and with service, which comprised 1,935 adults and 1,199 children. In addition, 64 families with 141 children received visiting homemaker service; 47 elder folk were aided in entering the Old People's Home, and 70 tubercular patients were admitted through this department to the Mount Sinai Sanatorium.

The Child Welfare Department supervised an average of 40 children in foster homes which gave 15,581 days' care. In addition, service was given to 31 children in their own homes; 17 children of broken immigrant families were placed in foster care. Another 198 boys and girls received 6,471 days' care during the summer holidays at our Sunshine Camp. The Refugee Youth Project has received 510 war orphans, and in 1950, served 177 such youth, with a balance of 48 receiving partial or full maintenance still, and another 30 getting counselling in their adjustment. 432 such youth had already become self-supporting by the year's end! To perform these services, a total of 10,503 home and office interviews were made.

Our legal aid and cemetery departments provided a variety of community services that required 2,575 interviews regarding legal problems and government pensions. Interments for 26 indigents were arranged and administrative services rendered for 38 burial societies. Our agency chaplain made 315 hospital visits affording solace to thousands, and instructed four boys at the Boys' Farm.

In highlighting the year's work, several events deserve special mention. The painstaking work of staff, board, and administration must be appreciated as the foundation core of our service. The merger of both agencies was formally enacted by acts of administration of both boards; we are now one corporate body. A revised set of by-laws is ready for your approval. The new building has been transferred to the Federation, our parent body, with provision for the amortization of our investments in its erection.

As a result of study, the Receiving Home was closed, arrangements for the temporary shelter of children being made with the Children's Aid Society. Plans are afoot to improve Sunshine Camp in the Laurentians for more efficient and safer operation.

The Jewish Vocational Service initiated a Sheltered Workshop, with our cooperation, for a trial period, for our local and DP clients who cannot otherwise find employment. The board and staff have undertaken careful and continuing studies and audits of our services and clientele which have led to many advances in our program. In cooperation with the Montreal Council of Social Agencies, we sponsored a two-day Family Agency Institute which served to interpret current and future directions in this field.

A special homefinding campaign in the spring led to worthwhile results in our increasing efforts to provide proper care for dependent children. We hope to create a forum for and a means of exchange with volunteer societies, whose work is allied to ours. Staff relationships were improved with a formal contract signed in February, 1950, and we appreciate Federation's approval of a cost of living salary adjustment for 1951. We welcome the establishment of the Social Welfare Court, which will eventually become a valued social instrument.

Behind these lights, shadows are cast by many unmet needs, by rising costs for food, rent, etc. Government subsidies need to be brought up to a more adequate level. Inadequate facilities plague all of us for the care and treatment of emotionally distressed children; for the educable feebleminded; for the terminal care of cancer and other diseases, for which there is a serious lack of adequate nursing homes.

In looking over the year past, I must express the sorrow of our agency over the untimely passing of Michael Latsky, who was truly a pillar of our community. The burdens of my office have been immensurably lightened by the cooperation of every member of the board and staff, the executive committee, and each operating committee. To each colleague, both salaried and volunteer, I express my thanks for a job well done. To each cooperative and affiliated social, health, and education agency in and outside the Federation, locally and nationally, public and private, I pay tribute for the mutual goodwill that is the hall-mark of our work. To our executive director, David Weiss, a word of genuine thanks and appreciation must be added.

Though the outlook for the year ahead is troubled, we know that this makes our work more important. In the abiding partnership between community and agency, board and staff, we take courage to face the duties that lie ahead.

Board members are: Dr. Harry L. Bacal, M.B.E.; E. M. Berger, L. M. Bloomfield, K.C.; J. Caplan, L. Z. Cohen, Nathan Cohen, J. Gilletz, Gustave Gray, Dr. A. B. Illievitz, Samuel Klein, Leon Levinson, Dr. Harry Magder, A. Niasenson, M. Pascal, Dr. J. R. Persk, L. Reitman, Irving Riddell, Edward I. Roll, M. B. Schwartz; S. J. Smiley, Max Finestone, members without portfolio; Joseph Lefcoe, chairman, executive committee; Mesdames Arnold Fisher, L. I. Frohlich, I. S. Isaacs, Simon Jaffe.

TWO GROUPS

ward to the overthrow of free government, as we in America understand it, and the substitution of institutions analogous to those sought by Hitler and Mussolini," the two organisations declared.

As a typical example implicating the German American Voters Alliance, the communications cited a long cable sent by the Voters Alliance to representatives of Dr. Adenauer's West German Government at Bonn declaring that "German Americans" would not support any American policy requiring the re-arming of West Germany, until all penalties and controls had been discontinued, "the stolen merchant ships and similar property returned to Germany, and the political content of the infamous Munich Agreement restored." This communication was prominently displayed, immediately after its transmission to Germany, in the neo-Nazi organ Der Weg, published in Argentina and complained of above.

As a second example involving the same group in New York, the communications cited a scurrilous cartoon contained in a brochure distributed during April, at Voters Alliance meetings, and reproduced in various subversive publications in the United States. The cartoon portrayed General Eisenhower hanging a Star of David medallion around the neck of Dr. Adenauer as a symbol of the supposed return of Jews to control of Germany. It was accompanied by a highly offensive doggerel ridiculing "Ike" (i.e., General Eisenhower).

suitable candidate among Turkish Jews and the law forbade a foreigner from holding the post.

Chance provided a way out of this impasse. When the Greek Orthodox Church chose a non-Turk as Patriarch of Constantinople, the Turkish Government agreed to grant him citizenship even before his arrival in the country, thus bypassing the law. The Jews of Turkey pointed to this precedent and were permitted to name Dr. Moises Ventura, former Chief Rabbi of Alexandria, Egypt, who had been forced to leave Egypt during the height of the anti-Jewish feeling several years ago and was living in New York, as their Grand Rabbi.
